LEAKE BACK FROM SURVEY OF HIGHWAYS

Gives Impressions of Wisconsin Systems

County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake returned home last evening from a two day tour through southern Wisconsin with Illinois state highway department engineers, county superintendents of highways and supervisors of northwest Illinois counties.

Two buses left the Dixon district offices of the state highway department Wednesday morning, making the first stop at the Pines state park, then proceeding to Polo, Freeport and Monroe, Wis. None of the members of the road and bridge committee or supervisors participated in the inspection tour from Lee county.

Superintendent Leake today gave some of his impressions of the Wisconsin highway system, calling particular attention to the sources of revenue and cost of construction.

"My impression of Wisconsin's highway system is that Illinois primary or bond issue roads are much better than Wisconsin's, but that state's secondary system or county roads are a big improvement over our county highway system.

"First of all, the people of Wisconsin are highway-minded. In other words they realize that the tourists from other states is one of their sources of revenue, together with the dairying industry, and their system of roads are so constructed as to be able to transport perishable products from the farms to the markets each day in the year.

Use State Gas Tax
"The laws of the state of Wisconsin are considerably different than those of Illinois. First of all, the State Highway Department is composed of county units. In other words, there are no township highway commissioners, the county taking care of all state, secondary and township roads. Wisconsin has a four cent gasoline tax which is collected by the state and allotted to the counties in proportion to the amount of motor cars registered in the county, together with the population. The counties are allotted $50 each year for maintenance of what we call our township roads from the motor fuel tax. In this state the motor fuel tax is divided among the state, county, cities and villages. This however, is not their only source of revenue.

"The state of Wisconsin in the past has levied a two mill tax on each dollar evaluation, amounting to 20 cents on the $100, and the law of this state provides a maximum levy for county highway purpose of 12%.

Other Sources
"In addition to these two sources of revenue for Wisconsin county road systems, I learned that most of the counties of the state were bonded, and the law is such that the board of supervisors have the

Near D. D.'s Home
Connorsville, Ind., Oct. 22—(AP)—When H. W. Ingram refused to close his grocery on Thursday afternoon, rival storekeepers came into his place, bought black cigars and stood around puffing huge clouds of smoke.

The other grocery operators had agreed to suspend business on Thursday afternoon, but Ingram insisted he was not a party to the agreement.

Barely able to see through the dense smoke, Ingram stumbled over to the telephone and asked police aid.

Ask Uncle Sam

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22—(AP)—If you think the government barbers only in billions you should meet Edward C. Tefft, supervising liquidator for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

"Aside from the usual assets we have taken in," he said, "we have on hand about everything from a Missouri mule to a Pennsylvania night club."

The agency has acquired, for instance, such properties as a batch of whisky on Long Island, a golf course in Minnesota, an opera house in Montana, a summer resort in Virginia, a stamp collection in South Dakota, a hamburger stand in West Virginia. Right now the FDIC is trying to peddle a girls' school dormitory.

The FDIC, which insures deposits up to $5,000 in about 14,000 banks, gets this sort of stuff when it has to move in after too many of the bank's assets have moved out.

power to vote such bond issues without submitting the proposition to the voters of the county, which differs materially with the law of Illinois.

"I was particularly interested in the amount of money spent for maintenance purposes on the secondary system. The officials figure $500 per mile. If Lee county could receive $500 per mile each year on the secondary of county system, we could build several badly needed bridges and improve our roads properly, and I believe to the satisfaction of most parties interested.

"The only thing that I find with reference to Wisconsin's highway program, which I feel has been sadly neglected in this community, is that all of the roads are surfaced either with oil mat, asphalt, concrete or gravel. The type of surface applied depends upon the volume of traffic that the roads carry.

Amount of Traffic
"I am positive that during the bad seasons of the year, Wisconsin's roads do not receive the amount of traffic that our roads do in Illinois. I took particular notice of the amount of traffic encountered during our tour and several of those accompanying the trip remarked that it was very light. Of course, during the summer months, when tourist travel is heaviest, the traffic is much heavier and these types of road answer the purpose very well.

"The majority of the black-top or oil mat surface roads are old roads that have been reconstructed or surface treated to give them an all-weather road and reduce the maintenance cost of the same. In fact the engineers who accompanied the trip, informed us that such was the policy of the state highway department, to give the residents a road that could be used during all seasons of the year.

Costs of Roads
"The costs of the different types of road ranged from $633 per mile to $30,000. The cheaper types of road were built up of a two inch oil mat. In other words, the loose gravel or crushed stone was placed to one side of the road and the base course was primed and this material which had been placed to one side, was then mixed with a cheap oil, bringing up a surface approximately to a two inch thickness over the entire width of the highway. This sort of treatment requires considerable maintenance due to the fact that during the spring of the year there are base failures and this material is removed and replaced.

A stock pile of approximately 150 yards of this material is placed along the road for each mile of this type of improvement to be used in patching.

"The other types of black-top pavement are similar to our state standard specifications which applies to roads being constructed in Illinois at the present time. However, these roads can be constructed considerably cheaper in Wisconsin than in Illinois due to the fact, that the materials can be found in most any location within a mile of the site it is required.

Bridge Construction
"Lee county at the present time is getting less than $200 per mile for construction of its bridges, together with the maintenance cost. Wisconsin is receiving $500 per mile for maintenance alone.

RECORDS HINT SHANAHAN WAS NOT RATIONAL

Contestants Of His Will Introduce Them In Court

Chicago, Oct. 22—(AP)—Hospital records were introduced in evidence today in an effort to support the claim of two cousins that David E. Shanahan, former state legislator, was mentally incompetent during the illness that led to his death Oct. 18, 1936.

The cousins, the Misses Margaret and Mary Flynn, were contesting a will made shortly before Shanahan's death and leaving the bulk of his $850,000 estate to Mrs. Helen Shanahan, whom he married in the hospital on Oct. 5, 1936.

Daily records from August 24 to the time of death were introduced by counsel for the plaintiffs. Those for August 29 stated Shanahan was constantly moaning and had a high pulse rate. On August 30, they stated, his pulse was 110 and he was violent, tearing his clothing and raving and screaming.

The attorney was interrupted by a juror, Earl V. Heden, 34, an optometrist, who told the court the records "don't mean anything to me" because of medical and other scientific terms used. Other jurors nodded, apparently concurring with Heden's view.

The court instructed the jurors they were to consider only what they understood. Later Dr. Arthur H. Schoenewetter was placed on the stand to interpret the records.

Nine Testify Insanity
Nine persons testified yesterday that Shanahan, six times speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, was incapable of making a will on the day he married Miss Troesch, his secretary for 21 years.

They were called by counsel for two cousins of the veteran Illinois legislator, the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, who are seeking to have his deathbed marriage invalidated and to set aside the will, naming his wife chief beneficiary of a $850,000 estate.

The cousins charge that a conspiracy existed between Mrs. Shanahan, Miss Mildred Spiering, who was the legislator's day nurse, and Robert E. Rodgers, real estate operator, to obtain control of the estate.

Shanahan died at the age of 74, just 13 days after the marriage ceremony was performed in his hospital room.

Among yesterday's witnesses was William Gordon, Shanahan's former real estate agent, who said he visited the 74-year-old legislator at the hospital on Sept. 29, 1936.

"Rodgers was in the room," he testified. "He told me that I would be killed if I testified that I saw Mr. Shanahan sign the will on May 27."

Refers to First Will
Gordon referred to Shanahan's first will which left 80 per cent of the residual estate to the Misses Flynn and 20 per cent to the present Mrs. Shanahan.

The last witness to testify yesterday was Glen Spencer, Mercy hospital barber, who said he shaved Shanahan twice a week while he was ill.

"During September he didn't know he was being shaved. He was in a stupor," Spencer said.

Ben St. Laurent, a state oil inspector, testified "Shanahan appeared weak," when he visited him at the hospital on October 4.

Mrs. Mary Larkin and her daughter, Agnes, relatives by marriage, testified that during a visit on August 30 Shanahan appeared to be "in a daze."

Miss Mary Pendergast, a nurse at the hospital, testified Shanahan "was hard to handle and delirious. His words made no sense."

Homeless Tramp Seriously Hurt In Auto Smashup

William Burns, 83 year old transient, who claims to have no home or relatives, is in a serious condition at the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital from injuries sustained in an automobile accident while walking along the Lincoln highway near the Nachusa corners. Floyd Shaw of Lyndon was returning home from Chicago last evening and at 7:30 struck the aged transient near the Nachusa corners.

Shaw stopped his car and assisted in placing the aged man in his car and hurried to the Dixon police station, where he reported the incident to State Highway Officer Edward Mahan. Burns was taken at once to the hospital and upon examination it was discovered that he had sustained a fracture of the ankle and several deep cuts about the head in addition to numerous body bruises.

George Prescott New President of Dixon's Own Insurance Company

Announcement of His Election Is Made Today

The announcement was made today at the home office of the Rural Bankers Life Insurance Company — Dixon's own — that George F. Prescott, well known here, has been elected president of Dixon business man and civic leader.

The new president has been given deserved recognition in his election to the presidency of this rapidly growing company. He was one of the organizers of the Rural Bankers Life Insurance Company and has given a great deal of his time toward the building up of the company. He is well acquainted with each salesman and has taken a personal interest in their production. He has been with each salesman in their territories. Mr. Prescott has also had the opportunity of personal acquaintance with a great many of the policyholders throughout the state.

Establishing the home office of the company in Dixon has worked most advantageously for the company and policyholders. With the election of Mr. Prescott as president still greater efficiency can be realized as all the active officers and directors reside in Dixon.

The officers of the company are George F. Prescott, president; R. S. Kline, vice president; C. A. Mellott, secretary; H. G. Byers, treasurer.

CHICAGO LAWYER SLAIN IN SUITE TODAY BY CLIENT

Butcher Kills Attorney and Self After Struggle

Chicago, Oct. 22—(AP)—Attorney Arnold M. Ehrlich was slain in his Loop skyscraper office today by Richard Lunk, a butcher, who then killed himself after a bloody struggle with an employee in the lawyer's suite.

It was the second attack here on a lawyer in recent weeks. Attorney Frederick W. Elliott was slain September 15 by George Chicharevich, a former client, who is awaiting trial November 22. Before shooting Elliott, police said, Chicharevich stabbed Attorney George Mason.

To Discuss Business
O. C. Kube, a translator employed by Ehrlich, said Lunk appeared at the office today to discuss a property holding worth $5,000 which he had lost by foreclosure. Without warning, Kube said, Lunk suddenly stood up and fired two shots at Ehrlich from close range.

Kube leaped at him and was battered about the head in a desperate struggle. Lunk tore free and shot himself, dying on the office floor. The lawyer was pronounced dead as he was brought into St. Luke's hospital.

Daughter-in-Law School
Relatives said Ehrlich, who was 54, had practiced here since shortly after graduating from the University of California in 1902. His daughter, Theresa, 21, is a senior in the University of Illinois law school.

Dr. Milton Chaiken, who was conferring with Ehrlich's law partner, applied first aid.

Kube said Ehrlich had attempted unsuccessfully to obtain an HOLC loan for Lunk, but was unable to do so because the butcher was not a citizen. The translator was present because Lunk spoke little English.

Department Searches For 2,000 Dead Mines

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 22—(AP)—The department of mines and minerals is conducting a search for an estimated 2,000 "dead" mines.

Director James McSherry said the location of the abandoned workings, often flooded or gas filled, is a protection against the possibility of miners striking them from nearby mines.

Alleged Circus Clown Sentenced To 30 Days in Lee County Jail

Gerald Lewis Linder, 23, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who claims to have been a clown in the Ringling circus, was sentenced to 30 days in Lee county jail with his repertoire during the next 30 days. Judge Leon A. Zick decided this morning. Linder, who was arrested in a stone quarry north of Ashton Tuesday night, after he was said to have taken two automobiles, entered a plea of guilty to an information charging him with tampering with automobiles not being his property, and to the county jail.

"Move Bridge"

New York, Oct. 22—(AP)—A law suit demanding, in effect, "move that bridge!"—a matter of millions of tons of steel and giant concrete viaducts, built to last an eternity—was filed in Supreme Court today.

The action is directed against the Triborough Bridge Authority. It left to the court to order removal of the $60,300,000 structure itself—the biggest bridge in the east, with a total length of three and one-half miles—or the payment of "suitable" damages.

The bridge connects Manhattan, Queens and the Bronx. Damages of $161,700 are alleged so far.

G-MEN CENTER ROSS MANHUNT NEAR CHICAGO

Ransom Note Leads To Renewed Drive On Kidnappers

Chicago, Oct. 22—(AP)—Discovery of a ransom note intensified the search for Charles S. Ross and his abductors today and led investigators to believe the kidnapping was the work of a Chicago gang.

Federal agents focused their nationwide search on the Chicago area when Mrs. Clara Ludwig, 41, a railroad freight office clerk, found yesterday she possessed a $10 bill which was part of the $50,000 ransom.

It was believed the first tangible evidence that the ransom money was in circulation. Investigators expressed confidence other notes would turn up to provide additional information that would lead them to the kidnappers' hide-out. Ross was seized from his car on the night of September 25.

Mrs. Ludwig reported she received the bill from Florence Giacquinto, 20, a roomer at her home. The latter said she received it from William J. Werneck, an insurance collector.

Federal agents immediately questioned Werneck at his home and then accompanied him on an automobile tour which presumably took them to policy holders on the collector's route. They declined to comment on their progress.

Federal operatives and deputy sheriffs stopped cars at the Iowa-Illinois bridge over the Mississippi river at Savanna, Ill., last night after receiving a report the kidnappers were headed in that direction. Bridges at Clinton and Dubuque, Ia., also were watched.

An unidentified man made the report to Mayor Rhene B. Law and then immediately drove away in a car.

Missing Infant's Body Found Drowned In Lake Chautauqua

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 22—(AP)—The body of 3-year-old Timothy Heer, who had been missing from home since Tuesday, was found in Lake Chautauqua today.

Searchers found the body wedged in a dock near driftwood, which is almost directly across the lake from Timothy's home.

Police, G-men and hundreds of local volunteers had searched for the boy since Tuesday noon, believing he had either drowned or been kidnapped.

Not So Dumb

Abilene, Tex., Oct. 22—(AP)—"What is Congress?" a naturalization examiner asked a Mexican citizenship applicant. "Congress," came the ready reply, "she is place where lotsa fellow get together and talk. Somebody say something she is bad and somebody say something she is good."

"Then somebody say they don't know what is good and what is bad?"

Alleged Circus Clown Sentenced To 30 Days in Lee County Jail

Judge Zick imposed a 30 day jail sentence, ordering that he pay costs and damages.

Virgil Klothe, 24, of this city, arrested yesterday morning by Deputy Gilbert Finch, entered a plea of guilty to an information filed by William Powers, Amboy grocer, charging him with the issuance of checks to defraud. At the recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney Gerald Jones, the hearing was continued until next Tuesday morning and Klothe was returned to the county jail.

RESIGNATION OF ANDREWS IS ACCEPTED

Head of Old Age Aid Leaves Post October 19

Toulon, Ill., Oct. 22—(AP)—James H. Andrews said today his resignation as state superintendent of the division of old age assistance had been accepted by Governor Horner effective October 19.

Andrews, appointed Dec. 9, 1935, to be the first head of the newly-created department, said he had "many private interests to attend to." He gave no further reason for his resignation, saying his communication with the governor "covered it."

Asked if the recent controversy over nominations of county old age assistance administrators played a part in his decision, Andrews said "I would rather not discuss that over the telephone."

Andrews, who was mayor of Kewanee for 16 years prior to his appointment, was in Toulon in connection with a legal case handled by the firm of which he is a member. This was one of his "private interests," he said.

Attorney General's Ruling
Attorney General Otto Kerner ruled yesterday that the state was without authority to reject on partisan grounds the nominations of aid administrators in 42 counties. They were refused by the state department of public welfare on the grounds they failed to give representation to both major political parties.

The nominations of 48 other county boards were approved. Andrews said he presented his written resignation to the governor 10 days ago. He did not know who would succeed him, he said.

An earlier controversy in the administration of old age pensions was ironed out last August after the federal government suspended payments to the state on the ground that administration of the federal law was inefficient and did not conform with terms of the social security act.

State and Federal Conference
Conference between state and federal officials resulted in a reorganization of the Illinois set-up and government funds were resumed.

John C. Weigel was appointed administrative assistant to A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, to effect the reorganization and since that time has been in active charge of the old age pensions.

Bowen, reached in Chicago, said he did not know if a successor to Andrews would be appointed, declaring it was "up to the governor."

"The department probably will run along as it is, at least for a while," Bowen said.

DECLINES COMMENT

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 22—(AP)—John C. Weigel, chief of the state's old age pension office, declined comment again today on Attorney General Otto Kerner's ruling that county welfare superintendent nominations can't be rejected on political grounds.

Weigel said he hadn't read the opinion. Made public yesterday, and would not indicate whether the public welfare department would recall its rejection of nomination in 42 counties.

Some county officials said they would resubmit the rejected names for superintendent of public welfare, the new county job to handle old age pensions.

DIRECTORS ORDERED TO MAKE SURVEY OF NEEDY UNEMPLOYED

Washington, Oct. 22—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, told his state directors today to find out by November 20 how many needy unemployed there are in the country.

Addressing them at a get-together meeting, Hopkins said: "I want to know how many people in the United States are unemployed, able to work and in need."

"I want to get a WPA figure on it. I want to see what WPA thinks is the number of people in need. The Hopkins survey evidently is to be entirely separate from the unemployment census, ordered by Congress to be undertaken by mail November 16. This census will attempt to list all persons out of work, regardless of whether they are in actual need."

In discussing government relief policies, Hopkins also instructed his directors to survey employment conditions, by interviewing factory heads, workers and others.

The national administrator informed his co-workers that the number on WPA rolls at the peak of winter unemployment would be about 2,000,000.

HULL APPEALS TO CONSCIENCE FOR HALTING STRIFE

Believes Eventual Law and Order Will Return

Toronto, Canada, Oct. 22—(AP)—Cordell Hull, America's secretary of state, summoned the "outrage conscience of mankind" today to set in motion forces designed to restore world peace.

In an address prepared for delivery at Toronto University, Hull inveighed against "international lawlessness" generally but did not refer specifically to the conflicts in China and Spain to which his remarks obviously were intended to apply.

"There is a grim paradox," he asserted, "in the trends which are so clearly discernible today. As civilization moves to higher and higher levels, as the march of progress opens wider and wider horizons of material and cultural advancement, war becomes more relentlessly cruel, more thorough and effective in its unrestricted savagery."

"Yet in this very paradox, in this soul-shattering conflict there are seeds of hope. No more than a community or nation can the world of today base its existence in part on order and in part on chaos, in part on law and in part on lawlessness."

"And, just as, sooner or later, the outraged conscience of a community or nation sets into motion forces which re-establish order under law, so I firmly believe the outraged conscience of mankind will set in motion forces which will create, in the sphere of international relations, unshakable, order based on law."

Receiving from the university the honorary degree of doctor of laws, the American official reiterated previous pleas for complete and general respect for international agreements as an indispensable condition to achievement of international order.

DRAINAGE LEVY INCREASED

A jury in the county court this morning empowered the Brush Grove drainage district in the east section of Lee county to increase the levy paid by farmers using the system. The application for permission to increase the amount of levy for the purpose of retiring an obligation amounting to $1,700 was granted by the verdict of the special jury.

Your Evening Telegraph carrier boy will call upon you tomorrow for the regular weekly collection. Be kind enough to have the money ready. There are 35 carriers who must cover the routes in haste. Please assist them.

Bowen Charges Lee Board Held Caucus for Welfare Applicants

A. L. Bowen of Springfield, director of the state department of public welfare, in a letter to County Clerk Sterling D. Schrock, charges that Republican members of the Lee county board of supervisors at the annual September meeting, conducted a caucus in selecting the names of applicants for the position of county superintendent of public welfare. County Clerk Schrock stated today that he had no knowledge of any such action upon the part of the board members in the selection of five candidates and an equal number of alternates.

In his letter to the Lee county clerk, Director Bowen says: "The five applications are being returned for the reason that we have learned that the Republican majority of the board held a caucus for the selection of candidates. Furthermore, other information coming to us indicates that all but one are Republicans."

"We do not believe that all of the talent is in any one party and what we really want are candidates of the very highest qualifications." At noon today, Clerk Schrock stated that the applications of the five candidates submitted to department had not yet been received by him.

Where to Go This Coming Week-End

By DEDE WELCH
Secretary Dixon Branch Chicago Motor Club

The old, old axiom about farm pastures looking greener has held true all this summer when everyone was on the go and each week-end meant get on the road to somewhere far away. However, with the advent of fall, shorter days and less driving time on week-end, it occurs to many of us to wonder what there is to see close to home.

No state is more rich in historical lore and evidences of historic happenings than Indiana. History to many of us in more or less uninteresting events which have developed life and living into its present complicated state.

The little town of Peru, Indiana, was the scene of an episode so romantic that the telling of the story never fails to bring the comment, "Truth is stranger than fiction."

In 1778, a little white girl was stolen from her home in Wilkes-Barre, Penn. She was only five years old, and she lived with the Indians, learning their customs and ways, and, when she reached womanhood, married a Miami chief. This little girl's name was Frances Slocum, but she was known to the Indians as Ma-don-a-quan, White Rose of the Miamis.

In 1837, her brothers found her living where Peru now stands. She refused to give up her mode of living and her husband, and remained with the tribe until her death in 1847. Bundy cemetery in Peru contains Frances Slocum's grave, marked by a handsome monument erected by her relatives of white and mixed blood. It stands on the ground that was once the dooryard of her Indian home. Also buried there is her husband, "she-po-co-nah."

The Frances Slocum trail follows the winding course of the Mississinewa river for 30 miles to Marion. On this road is the Frances Slocum monument. If you travel this way, you will see the village of Somerset which was the subject of the James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "Amongst the Hills of Somerset."

If your visit to Peru is delayed until later in the season, you can visit the Hagenback-Wallace, Sells-Floto and John Wallace circus quarters. Another interesting thing to see is the Seven Pillars a remarkable formation made by the whirling water of the Mississinewa near Peru.

For the next few weeks the countryside will be brilliant with fall colorings—make the most of your week-ends, for all too soon the highways will be snow-covered and uninviting.

GLASSBURN TO SHOW NEW CAR THIS WEEK END

The J. L. Glassburn agency has everything in readiness for the first local showing of the new 1938 Chevrolet which will be given a nationwide introduction tomorrow.

"We are especially proud of the surprise we have in store this year," states Mr. Glassburn. "Never, in our years in the automobile business have we been privileged to introduce such a distinctively beautiful car. In addition, this new Chevrolet leaves nothing to be desired from the standpoint of such qualities as performance, comfortable riding, safety, etc., which means so much to the careful car buyer."

In conclusion, Mr. Glassburn remarked that they are prepared to accommodate a large number of visitors and cordially invites everyone to attend the first showing of the New Chevrolet. The Chevrolet rooms will be open from 8 a. m. until 10 p. m., tomorrow and Sunday from 8 a. m. until 1:30 p. m.

BAR COUSINS' MARRIAGE

Milwaukee, Wis.—(AP)—Because a county court ruling makes the offspring of half-sisters full cousins to each other, a young man and woman were denied the right to marry by Harry L. Wilcox, clerk of the marriage license bureau. Cousins are barred from marriage in Wisconsin.

HORSE THIEF 'DETECTIVES' STILL GET TOGETHER

Garnaville, Ia.—(AP)—The Garnaville Horse Thief Detective Association, organized in 1850, still functions.

Thirty members hold annual meetings on Whit Monday (second Monday after Ascension, in May) and they pay dues, elect a captain and eleven riders.

According to original plans the captain and his riders were notified when a horse was stolen. The "detectives" started search immediately. They were allowed $5 a day expenses and stood a good chance of getting the $50 reward if the thief was caught.

If the horse was recovered, the owner paid 10 per cent of its value into the association treasury; if not recovered the association paid 75 per cent of its actual value to the owner.

In California, it is estimated that each 20 rock squirrels destroy enough forage annually to support a cow for a year.

PLAN OUTLINED TO MODERNIZE NO. 30 HIGHWAY

Stretch From Geneva To Mississippi May Be Improved

A program, the outline of which is intended to bring about the modernization of the Lincoln Highway from Geneva to the Mississippi river, was launched in Dixon yesterday afternoon at a meeting here, which was arranged by Manager R. T. Hall, manager of the Chicago Motor club's Dixon branch. James E. Bulger of Chicago, a director of the club, presided at the meeting. Mr. Bulger is one of the country's outstanding authorities on tourist travel and referring to the Lincoln Highway, he classified it as being not only the most famous highway in the United States, but the Main Street of the Nation.

The meeting was the first runner of a general gathering planned for the near future when the cities of Geneva, De Kalb, Rochelle, Ashton, Franklin Grove, Dixon, Sterling, Morrison and Fulton will be represented. The purpose of the movement is to restore the Lincoln Highway, by modernization and elimination of dangerous stretches, for the convenience of the touring public.

Mr. Bulger in addressing the meeting estimated that a population estimated at a minimum of 60,000 people is represented in the above named cities on the Lincoln Highway, with a feeder population of about the same number. With the opening of newly constructed highways, he stated that the greater part of the freight truck travel was being taken over the new routes, and because of this fact, he stressed the importance of modernizing the Lincoln Highway for tourist travel.

Meetings similar to the gathering in Dixon yesterday afternoon, have been held in many of the cities along the highway and organizations have been perfected to promote the plan. A committee from this city was selected to become active at once in the program as follows: Charles E. Miller, chairman, George B. Shaw, Floyd Cannon, H. C. Warner, J. Frank Bennett, Chester Barriage, John L. Davies, Sherwood Dixon, E. E. Maxwell, Ed. Vaile, Edwin Carlson and E. L. Fulmer.

Carlson's curve, west of Dixon, and the Kite creek bridge, west of DeKalb were pointed out as being the most dangerous locations on the highway between Geneva and Fulton. The survey conducted by the Dixon district department of highways engineers last spring, beginning at Breunier's curve, one mile east of Franklin Grove and continuing along the north side of the Northwestern railroad tracks to Rochelle, was credited with the elimination of several treacherous and dangerous locations. An improvement of the highway between Dixon and Sterling, was suggested as an important stage in the accident elimination plan.

Throughout the meeting, the importance of the Lincoln Highway as a route for tourist travel was stressed and it was the general impression that a program be outlined at once toward the modernization of the highway to be presented and recommended for improvement early this winter.

A campaign to widen the highway and restore it to its former position of importance has been announced by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, in an editorial in the current issue of Motor News, official club

Snarling Chinese Dragon Subdued

Life stirred again in a long-dormant Chinese dragon—the Great Wall—when anti-Japanese columns of troops inched along its back toward Nankow Pass to meet invading Japanese. But the dragon's stand was futile, and after a stubborn fight, the Japanese crossed the barrier and swarmed down into North China proper.

publication. The editorial states in part:

"The first step in the campaign was to reorganize a committee of the Chicago Motor club for the improvement of the highway. At De Kalb a committee has already been formed, and at other towns along the highway similar committees will soon be formed.

"Personally, I enter into this campaign with a great deal of zeal, for I know, first of all, that it is a worthwhile project, and secondly, it has a sentimental attachment difficult for me to shake. Memories of the old days before the concrete was laid—memories of the Chicago Motor club working for the $60,000,000 bond issue—memories of that great road builder, S. E. Bradt of De Kalb, whose son is a member of the De Kalb committee for the improvement of the highway—all these things crowd in on me when I think of this stretch of road which taps some of the finest country in the entire state. Rich farm lands, busy manufacturing cities, and some of the most picturesque scenery in the state can be reached over this highway.

"It deserves improvement, and I am certain that when our plans are presented to Governor Horner and the state highway department, we will get a Lincoln Highway that will make travel safer and more enjoyable on the entire stretch between Chicago and the Mississippi river."

mean platform would put Republican candidates in a political strait-jacket. Their best tactics in these days of Roosevelt popularity is to pussyfoot on the New Deal. In some districts the less they attack Roosevelt, the less they mention policies, the better off they are.

Most irked over the Hoover mid-term convention idea is ex-Governor Alf Landon. He has two counts against it:

1. Any party platform pie into which Herbert Hoover puts a finger would be too conservative. Landon doesn't think that delegates selected for conventions in 1932 and 1936 are in tune with the times; that anything they draft would be a liability, not an asset. The local politicians who have to face the music in 1938 should write their own scores, argues Landon.

2. He also views Hoover's move as a canny scheme to push him into the background, then become the big shot of the Grand Old Party.

This does not necessarily mean that Landon harbors hopes for another try at the presidency. His close friends say he has no such ambition. But in any case he does not intend to allow Hoover, if he can help it, to elbow him off the driver's seat.

Landon proposes to remain titular leader of the party in fact as well as in name, at least until the regular convention in 1940. Furthermore, he is determined to have a big voice in what that convention does.

Landon Plan

What will be the outcome of this inner struggle only time will tell.

Both champions have powerful support. Landon is the able tactician and is far more popular among the GOP rank-and-file than Hoover. In fact, the ex-President's biggest handicap is his lack of goodwill in the ranks. On the other hand, he has the very important advantage of a close-knit and asgressive organization quietly built up in the last year.

To offset this, and to snatch the initiative from his rival, Landon has proposed a counter plan to replace the mid-term convention.

This calls for the establishment of a policy committee, or sort of High Command, consisting of Landon, Hoover, Colonel Frank Knox and Senators McNary, Borah and Vandenberg. While this group is not particularly pro-Landon; on the other hand it is emphatically anti-Hoover. In fact, the only sure pro-Hoover man on it is Hoover himself.

Under Landon's formula, Hoover would be given the sop of a place in an inner council, but he wouldn't be THE inner council.

Hamilton Ouster

Entangled in the tug o' war is the fate of National Chairman Hamilton.

Landon, Knox, most of the congressional leaders would like to axe him. But their problem is to find a suitable successor. Few people want the job. Overhanging the party is a large and unattractive deficit.

This is Hamilton's biggest asset. So far it has kept the very welcome $25,000-year-post in his own lap.

Further to strengthen himself, Hamilton tied up with Hoover and is vigorously pushing the convention plan—a maneuver that has not improved his standing either with Landon or the congressional chiefs.

Last week a movement suddenly broke into the open to replace Hamilton with Landon. The exact source of this idea is clouded in mystery. Landon's friends say he had nothing to do with it, that he would not take the job, as it would be a distinct step-down.

Some GOPers say Senators Vandenberg threw the chairmanship at Landon as a move to undermine Hoover and strengthen his own presidential ambitions. As National Chairman, Landon would be definitely out of the 1940 picture. Hamilton will not walk the plank at the Chicago meeting. But what happens in the fight between Hoover and Landon will determine in a large measure how much longer he holds on to his cushy job.

Merry-Go-Round

Among the letters of congratulation received by William O. Douglas upon his elevation to the chairmanship of the SEC was one stating, "Thank God the Commission had the good sense not to elect a lawyer." Before coming to Washington, Douglas was professor of law at Yale, salary $18,000. A recent survey of Pickett County, Tenn., birthplace of Secretary Cordell Hull, disclosed only one telephone in the entire county and only one Negro family. There is considerable agitation among Congressmen for an electric railroad between the House and its two office buildings, similar to the one on the Senate side. The Congressmen are saying much about the time such a subway would save them, but nothing about the fact that its installation would cost taxpayers $60,000.

'RUBBER CHECK' WANDERS,

BUT ALWAYS COMES BACK

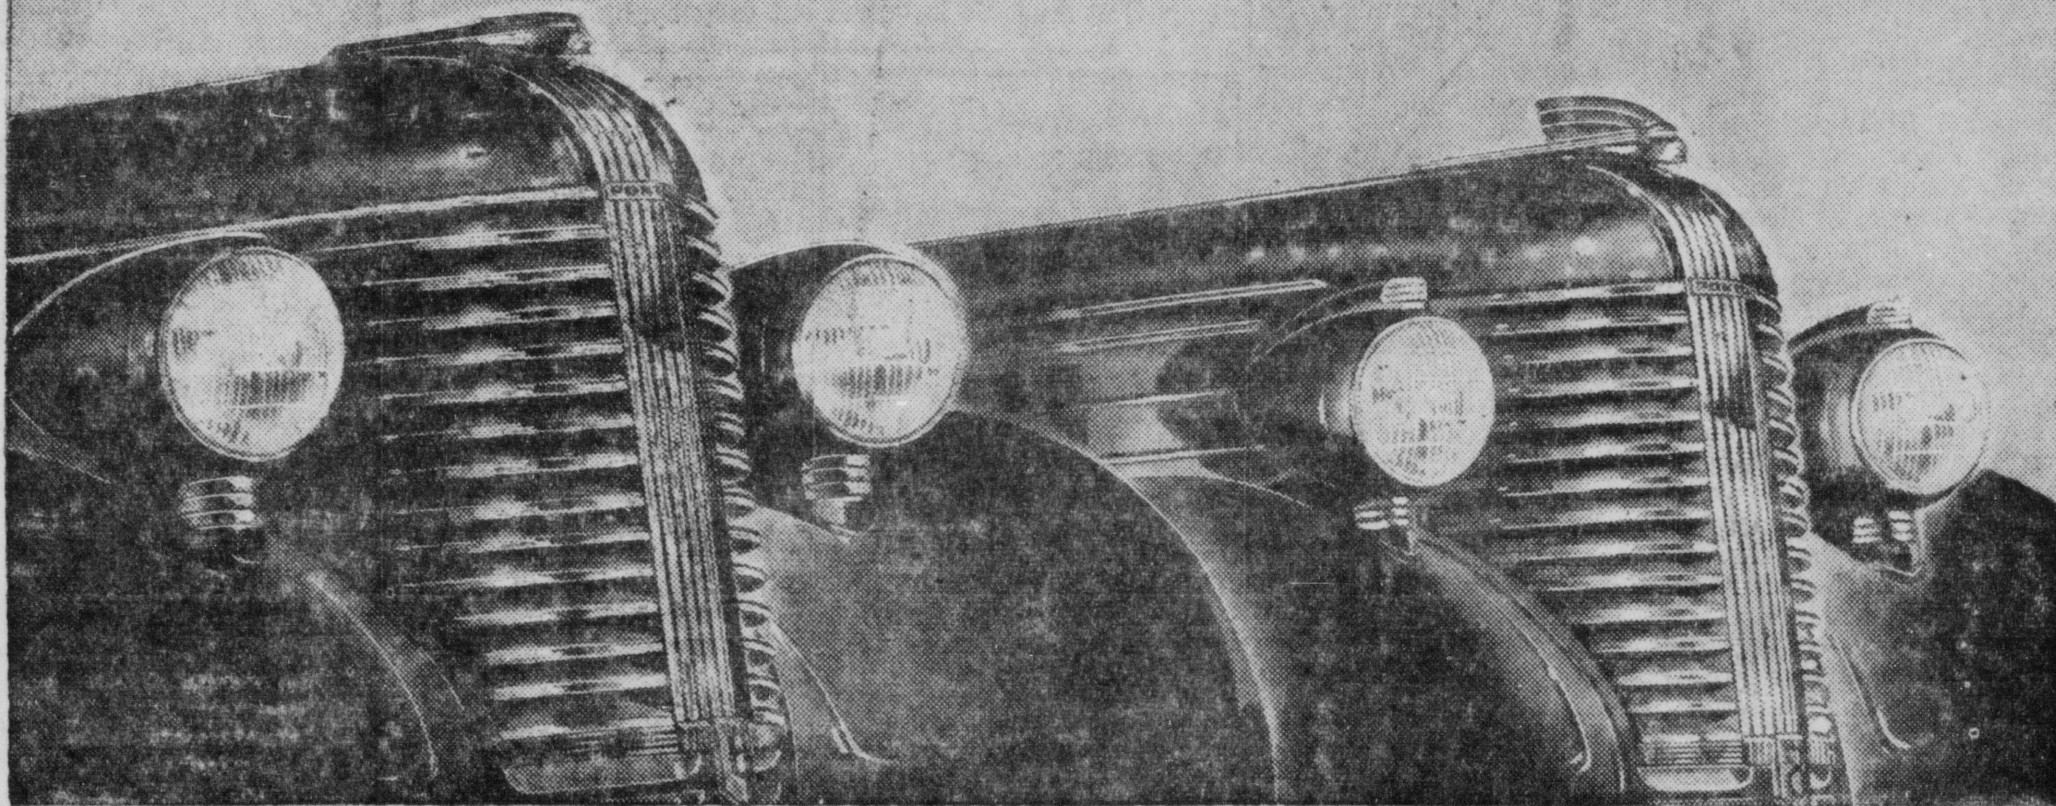

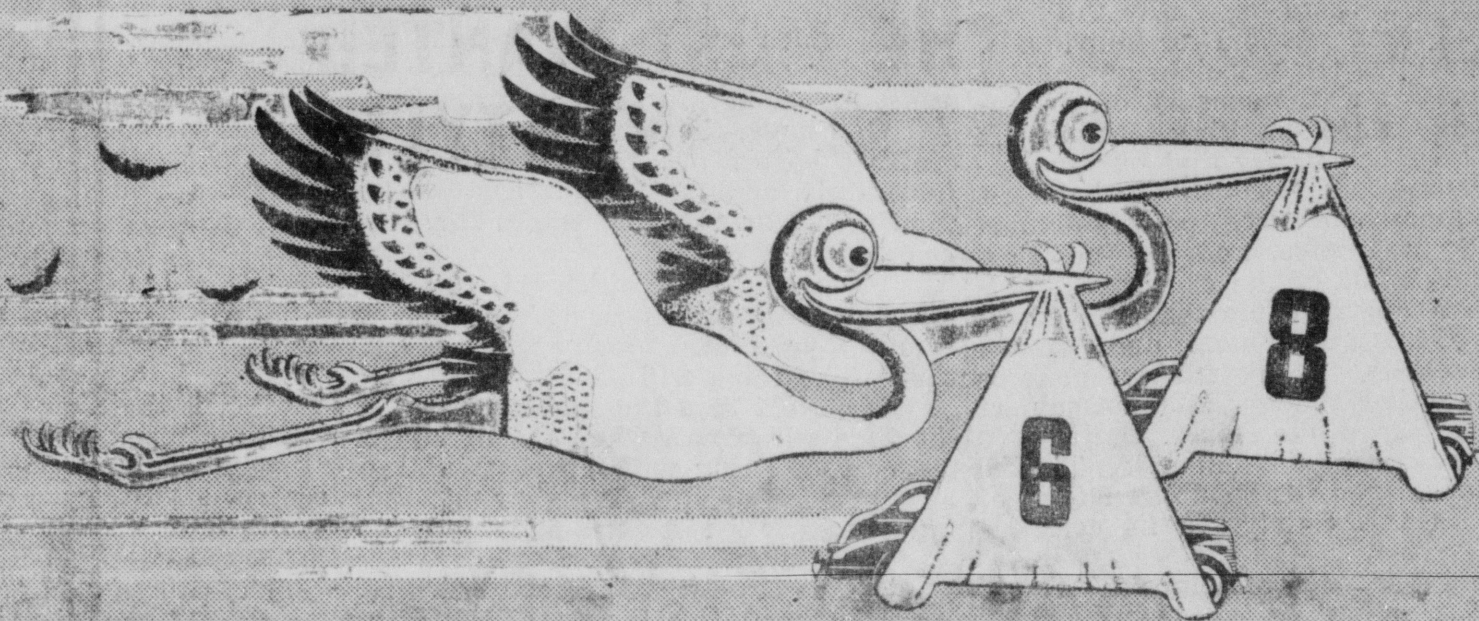

Ionia, Mich. —(AP)—"Rubber Check," an aged but agile turtle, has been hanging around the Vern Judevine farm near Palo for more than 36 years, and the family is prepared to prove it.

Judevine caught the turtle in 1901 and carved his initials and the date on the animal's shell. Eleven years later he again encountered the turtle and repeated the "registration." Recently Judevine's son, Dannon, caught a turtle ambling across the lawn and Judevine discovered it to be "Rubber Check" with his two inscriptions intact.

"We call him 'Rubber Check,'" Frank Judevine, brother of Vern explained, "because he always comes back."

MR. LANDON TALKS

Alf Landon addressed a radio audience on a plan of action for the 17 millions of persons who voted for him and against continuation of the errors of the New Deal. It is well enough to keep before the people the sound fundamental principles upon which our country grew great, because we may want to get back to them before it is too late, if it does not get too late before we have a chance. It is worth while to keep alive the principle of thrift both for governments and for individuals. It is worth while to keep alive the principle of honesty in dealing one with another and the sanctity of government obligations, especially when on printed bonds. It is worth while to keep alive the theory that our government lived 150 years because it kept constantly before it the principle that a republic should have powers divided among the executive, the legislative, and the judiciary, and not all placed in the hands of the executive. It is worth while to keep alive the principle that the courts have been the bulwark of this government, and that the independent agencies such as the interstate commerce commission should be kept independent and not subject to whims of a politician in the White House.

That is about all that can be done at present in the way of resisting the assault upon the republican form of government established in this country in its constitutional convention.

It is not within the realm of possibility for the republican party to outbid the New Dealers in bribing the electorate.

Not until the money and credit of the country are exhausted or the electorate is shot through with fear of the consequences of accepting its own pledged money as a bribe will there be much chance of changing the administration in Washington.

There have been two prior democratic administrations since the Civil War, and in each instance the people turned to the Republicans to administer the government so as to pay off the debts.

Even when the people get enough of pledging their own future earnings to raise the money to bribe themselves at election time, we do not know that they will turn again to the Republican party. There are those who live in hope that the smash will be so complete that there will be only one course, that to have the government take over everything and let the politicians manage all of us—communism.

Government agencies and influences now have the great railroad systems in about that position. Seizure of the mines and the power systems and lines of communication would come next.

It may be that we shall escape such a fate, but we must run the course of the present phase. As long as the money lasts and enough of the electorate is required to look to Washington as the place from which all blessings flow, there is not much use of attempting to outbid the present administration. The bid is too high.

THE POLITICIAN IS THE STATE

One of the present political phenomena is that the man who long has exhibited contempt for "politicians" as such, and usually has been ready with his vote of lack of confidence, now is anxious to place control of all affairs, business and personal, in the hands of "the government."

There seems to be a lack of perception that placing a person's business or his liberty in the hands of the "government" is placing it under control of the politicians, who reach hand to hand from the top in Washington down to the ward heeler and precinct captain.

Worse than that, we do not know to what set of politicians we are committing it. We lodge the power in Washington in great faith, but we never know what set of profligate spenders are going to sap its strength and waste the proceeds on high government living and on purchase of the electorate to grasp more power.

The government is politicians—nothing else.

FACTORIES HAVE DONE THEIR SHARE

It has been disclosed from time to time, but persistently ignored as a factor in economics of the country, that the manufacturing industries have done their share in the matter of re-employment. The idle are in other lines.

Principal contributor to the unemployment of the country is the building industry. It has choked itself. The president has been priming the building industry pump ever since he entered office, and he still is at it. But when he levels any criticism it is not at the building industry, which has choked itself, but at the large manufacturing interests, which have done their share in re-employment.

There are other factors in the unemployment situation, which are disclosed by a survey made public by George H. Davis, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The survey was made by Crossley, Inc., an independent fact-finding agency, and was made in a city with population between 500,000 and 1,500,000, the name unannounced.

It showed that only 45 percent of the persons on the city's relief rolls "ever had been employed in private business." Of persons on WPA and direct relief rolls, 17 percent were 70 years old or older, 82 percent never had had a bank account, more than 50 percent had been unemployed at least four years, "while factory workers of all kinds constituted a small minority."

TAX ON WAGES FINANCES GOVERNMENT

Cyrenus Cole, who was graduated into congress from a Cedar Rapids editorial room, and retired voluntarily to continue his residence and to write in Washington a few years ago, is worried about the public debt.

"We are going farther into debt all the time and nobody worries about it," was his comment in an interview. "Thirty-eight billions! The people don't seem to worry about it, though, but they ought to."

"Even Andy Mellon, who was some secretary of the treasury, was able to pay off the war debt at only 1 billion a year. At that rate it would take almost forty years to pay off the present load. Moreover, right now the government isn't paying much interest, but when it comes to refund the debt, as it will have to do, and has to pay 2½ to 3½ percent, then the interest alone will eat up Mellon's billion a year."

"However, as long as the people don't care and the administration just says, 'Let 'er go,' what's the use of worrying about it?"

Noting the continued promise to balance the budget and the repeated failure so to do, Frank R. Kent, Washington writer for the democratic Baltimore Sun, gives reason for lack of alarm on the part of the people, saying:

"One is because the administration propaganda has continuously soothed the people into believing that if they have faith in the president everything will work out all right and that with business recovery the budget will be automatically balanced. 'That has been the doctrine, and the degree to which it has been swallowed is one of the most remarkable things that has happened in our political history. In face of the facts, it is perhaps as striking evidence of the lack of public discernment as ever has been given.'"

The sordid story is of more promises, more failures to keep promises and an increase in government expenditures and an increase in government indebtedness from year to year. In the seven months that have intervened since the last declaration of greater economy, the number of civilian employees on the federal payroll has been increased from 831,000 to 845,000 and there will be further increases.

The debt now is 37 billions, which is 10 billions more than at the end of the World War.

The most insidious thing at work now, however, is the thing pointed to in the last presidential campaign, the fact that the government now is collecting taxes on wages, which ought to be in a fund regarded as almost sacred for social security purposes, our pensions, and is using the money for current expenses.

Of course, there is a process of investing it in government bonds, but the government is only borrowing from itself, and the fund it borrows from is the sacred fund raised by taxes on wages for pensions upon retirement.

"The ease with which this can be done is a terrific temptation to make free with what is essentially a trust fund," says Kent. "Soon or late the law which permits this sort of thing will have to be changed."

Mr. Kent says the real hope in the situation is that the time will arrive when the middle class will connect the cost of living with governmental extravagance and he thinks the rise now is beginning to make wage earners and housewives restless and thoughtful.

He is more optimistic than we are. If we get to looking too closely at the realities, the president will let loose another birdie for us to look at and to attract our attention away from facts. Or he will have a new emergency that must be knocked out only by him.

Where do we go from here is a question many would like answered since the nation was pushed into international politics.

Anyway, this congress can never be referred to as a "No" man's land.

Toledo service station operators have decided not to sell gas to drunken drivers. This may force bootleggers to put in a gas supply as a sideline.

Society writer in a Paris, Ill., paper reports the groom at a wed-

Poet's Corner

STILL GOING ON

One beautiful day
I saw a lovely ship move out of port
Beyond the bay;
I watched the ship sail steady and true.

The while it small and smaller grew;
All draped in tinted sunset skies
That dropped to meet the green, gray sea
And hid that lovely ship from me.

Aha! Then I understood,
She's gone across the line to another dawn
Beyond my vision, ship and crew.
Yet sailing on to countries new,
To ports where waiting eyes will see

That lovely ship
Lost awhile to me.
So each of us a ship may be
Sailing on life's charted sea,
Sailing on toward the sunset day,
Where from each earth we pass away.

Yet, though we may be gone,
We hope to still be going on
In a new light and life over there
In God's eternal home somewhere.

OPERA SINGER KEEPS PROMISE TO PATROLMAN

Armonk, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Because Queena Mario, metropolitan opera soprano, was in a hurry to get home Saturday night, the North Castle town police presented an extra added attraction—Mme. Mario in selected songs—at the annual entertainment and dance of the police benevolent association last night.

Patrolman William Ormond, quite a hero in these parts because of the part he played last February in the capture of the bank robber, Merle Vandenburg, bobbed up beside Mme. Mario's car while, he said, she was doing 45 and passing another car on a curve.

Mme. Mario explained her haste and, in the process of explanation, mentioned that she sang at the Metropolitan. That gave Patrolman Ormond an inspiration.

"Say the police association is giving a dance Tuesday night," he said, "how about coming up and sing for us?"

"Will the judge be any easier on me?" asked the practical Mme. Mario.

Patrolman Ormond shoved an unused summons book back into his pocket. "I don't think you'll have to worry about the judge," he said, then added, "you really don't have to sing. If you just show up, it'll be perfectly swell."

"If I show up, I'm going to sing," said the singer.

She kept her promise.

Mrs. H. Blackburn Has Marion Unit Meeting At Home

The Marion Unit of Home Bureau met with Mrs. Hugh Blackburn Jr., on Wednesday afternoon in regular session.

Mrs. Robert Levan, chairman, presided. The program booklets were distributed, admired and explained. The order of business outlined in the booklet was followed, and the singing of the Home Bureau song formally opened the meeting.

The major project lesson, "Care of Food in the Home," was given by Mrs. Helen Yeager, local leader from South Dixon unit, and was timely and interesting. Some old beliefs and practices were discarded through this lesson and many new suggestions given.

Marion unit deeply appreciates the kindness of Mrs. Yeager in giving the lesson, since their local leaders were unable to attend the "Care of Food" Training school.

Announcement was made of the open meeting which all women, whether members of Home Bureau or not, are cordially invited to attend. This will be a demonstration by Miss Grace B. Armstrong, instructor in "Foods" at the University of Illinois, on "Yeast Bread Variations," and will be held in the Masonic hall over Schuetts hardware at Amboy on Oct. 28 at 1:30 p. m.

On Nov. 4 at 1:00 p. m., Mrs. Ruth Freeman of the Home Accounts department of the U. of I. will be at the Home Bureau office to conduct a Home Accounts school.

Since every successful business man keeps expense accounts and most homemakers keep an account of "savings," Home Bureau members are urged to attend this school and learn how to use the simple, complete account book compiled by Mrs. Freeman and her assistants. No business has a more uncertain income than the farm family, which makes account keeping the more important, and none have so many "partners" of varying ages and ability. Account keeping now can do much toward developing ability to "balance the budget" for the next generation.

Nov. 10 is the date set for the annual meeting of the Lee County Home Bureau, which will begin at 10 o'clock a. m. in the Christian church parlors in Dixon.

The ladies of the church will serve lunch at noon and if you have not made your reservations, do so before Nov. 5. Mrs. Ellis Kugler of Harmon is chairman of the dinner committee, and will take care of your reservations.

Marion unit is striving to be one of the "Blue Ribbon Units" which will receive recognition at the annual meeting. All members are asked to notice the requirements and do all they can to help Marion perfect her record.

First, the unit must have had all the major project lessons since last annual meeting to date.

Second, the unit must have increased its membership over the enrollment at last annual meeting.

Third, the members must all have their dues paid for the current year.

Fourth, the unit must have its quota balanced, either by new members or by payment of the quota allotment given at last annual meeting.

The minor project lesson, "Use of the Weavitt," was given by Mrs. C. C. Ackert, also a demonstration of a decorative cord sometimes called "Idiot's Delight," proved interesting and explanatory of the name.

In the absence of the recreation leader, Mrs. Henry Rankin conducted games varied to include all.

The November meeting on the third Wednesday will be the first all day meeting of this year and will be with Mrs. Walter Levan.

The major lesson for November is "Meat Selection" and will be conducted by the Home Adviser, Miss Coleman. The minor lesson on "Braiding" will be in charge of Mrs. C. C. Ackert.

After adjournment a social hour was enjoyed, during which the hostess served an appetizing lunch to the members and four visitors.

PUZZLED DOPE EXPERT PICKS HIS WINNERS

Favors Cornell To Upset Eli; Notre Dame
Over Navy

BY HERBERT W. BAKER

New York, Oct. 22—(AP)—On the theory you can't hit a man when he's down, this corner ventures the following football guesses from a strictly horizontal position:

California - Southern California: California.

Yale-Cornell: Rhyme, and its boy-friend, reason, says there's no excuse for picking anybody but undefeated, untied Yale, nevertheless the hunch here is that the Ithacans will come roaring back from that Syracuse defeat and upset the Eli appreciat.

Vandebilt-Louisiana State: We'll take out the coin, call heads and . . . Louisiana it is.

Ohio State-Northwestern: The question before the house is: "Why did Ohio State take that layoff last week unless it was to get ready for this?" There being no answer, the ballot is cast for the Ohio.

Texas A. and M.-Baylor: Baylor. Fordham-Texas Christian: It'll be close but Fordham's the choice. Pitt-Wisconsin: Wisconsin's unbeaten and untied but the Badgers appear to be barking up the wrong tree here, Pitt.

Harvard-Dartmouth: If that Harvard ground attack were more potent this vote wouldn't be going, as it is, to Dartmouth.

Duke Too Good Colgate-Duke: Duke looks too good for the Red, or Pink, Raiders. Boston College-Detroit: Andy Farkas and a machine-gun passing attack seem to entitle Detroit to the edge.

Maryland-Syracuse: No guarantees with this Syracuse.

Princeton - Rutgers: Unbeaten, untied, unscored on Rutgers may make this close, but that should be all, Princeton.

New York University-Lafayette: Ditto undefeated, untied, unscored on Lafayette. N. Y. U.

George Washington - Alabama: Where do all these undefeated teams come from? Alabama.

Villanova-Bucknell: Ware trouble here, Villanova.

Army-Washington Univ.: Looks safe for Army.

Temple - Carnegie: We'll take Temple against most anybody in a night game on the Owls' home field.

Columbia-Brown: Columbia.

Penn-Georgetown: Penn should win one here.

Holy Cross-Western Maryland: Holy Cross.

Favors Notre Dame

Notre Dame-Navy: If the fighting Irish transfer some of their fight from midfield to the goal line they might win this one. With arm upraised for a fair catch, Notre Dame.

Iowa-Michigan: A trifle doubtful, Michigan.

Cincinnati-Indiana: Indiana.

Michigan State-Marquette: Michigan State.

Missouri-Nebraska: Maybe it was a bad idea for Nebraska to overturn Minnesota. The Huskies have not played their game since but they've got to be given the call here.

Oklahoma-Kansas: Oklahoma.

Georgia Tech-Auburn: Again it's heads, and Georgia Tech.

North Carolina - Tulane: We'll take Tulane and hope for the best.

Kentucky-Manhattan: One of New York's home clubs wanders far off customary base. For that reason alone, Kentucky gets the nod.

Arkansas - Southern Methodist: Arkansas.

Texas-Rice: Texas.

Washington-Stanford: Stanford.

U. C. L. A.-Washington State: U. C. L. A.

Oregon-Oregon State: Oregon.

Colorado - Colorado State: Easy for Colorado.

Utah-Denver: Utah looks like the winner.

Sequoia National park rangers report that a flying squirrel in the park is inordinately fond of uncooked spaghetti.

Dixon and DeKalb will settle their North Central conference differences on the Barb gridiron tonight. The lightweight game will begin at 7 p. m. and the heavyweight contest at 8:30 o'clock. Coach C. B. Lindell's great eleven with a title-winning tradition built up through the years, and a steam-roller machine with big 180-pound Gerald Ankeny in the drivers seat is a slight favorite to topple the crippled Barbs from a share in the first place berth.

The DeKalb eleven has not yet recovered from a damaging blow received in the early part of the season when Leifheit, star captain and backfield man, was lost for the season with a broken collarbone. Jarvi, who took his place and has developed into a player of ability, is also hurt in the hip and may not be able to start the game tonight. Coach Trees is grooming Bill Luoma to take Jarvi's place tonight.

Record Less Impressive DeKalb, though undefeated, has not built such an impressive record as Dixon this fall. The latest mark on the DeKalb slate is an unimpressive 6 to 6 tie with Crystal Lake, a non-conference opponent, last week. Previously DeKalb had only beaten Mt. Morris, cellar-holder of Rock River Valley conference team, 18 to 0; and had experienced difficulty in downing mediocre Sterling, 13 to 7.

Following is the probable line-up of the teams at the opening whistle:

Dixon	DeKalb
O'Brien	le
Rippi	le
Grube	lg
Spear	c
Prentice	fg
K. Jarvi	rt
Tellison	re
Rich	qb
T. Jarvi	lu
Harrison	rh

Spurgeon Lost To Illinois For Rest Of Gridiron Year

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 22—(AP)—Lowell Spurgeon, captain and backfield star, has played his last football game for Illinois.

A recurrence of an old ankle injury, suffered in a high school game, had kept Spurgeon out of uniform all week. Today, Dr. L. M. T. Stilwell, team physician, speaking both for himself and Coach Bob Zupke, said that "in consideration of Spurgeon's future we have deemed it advisable that he play no more football."

Spurgeon's left halfback position will be filled by Jay Wardley, Joliet, Ill., junior who donned a uniform recently after being out of action four weeks because of injuries.

NEW YORK MAN'S TICKET FIRST IN SWEEPSTAKES DRAW

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 22—(AP)—The first ticket drawn from the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes' whirling drums of fortune today was that of William B. Haggerty of Tonawanda, N. Y.

It was on Miss Windsor, an entry in the Casarewitch race to be run Wednesday. The horse was not a favorite, however. The five favorites were Epigram, Near Relation, Solar Bear, Harewood and Maranta.

The total intake of the sweeps was announced as $2,685,155 (about $13,610,000) of which $1,582,753 (about $8,700,000) made up the prize fund to be distributed on the whim of millions of tiny capsules in house.

Some 2,000 winners will divide the prize money in this, the 22d sweepstakes draw.

Most of the tickets had been sold in the United States and Latin America. Besides the lucky few throughout the world, the lottery will pour millions of dollars into the Irish hospitals fund.

Last May's draw on the Epsom Downs derby brought a total prize disbursement of about $8,318,000 out of a total intake of about $13,400,000.

Six Americans also drew Solar

Sixteen District Ball Commissioners Appointed For 1938

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Sixteen district commissioners are being appointed in every state to supervise district semi-pro baseball tournaments for 1938 by the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress. High Commissioner Honus Wagner has announced.

WILDCATS AND BUCKS STAKE TITLE HOPES

Defeat For Either
Means Virtual Elimination

By EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, Oct. 22—(AP)—The Western conference championship hopes of both elevens will hang in the balance tomorrow when Northwestern battles Ohio State at Columbus.

Defeat for Northwestern will deal a crushing blow to the Wildcat chances of retaining the title won with six straight victories in 1936. Victory for the favored Buckeyes would establish the Francis Schmidt team as a standout favorite to win no less than a share of the conference crown.

Ohio State, after tomorrow's game, must play Chicago, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, a program apparently not so rigorous as the Northwestern schedule of Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota. Wisconsin, now tied with Northwestern and Minnesota at two victories each, also must play Minnesota. While upsets may occur, defeat for Ohio State would brighten Minnesota's chances for an undisputed title.

Polishing Off Workout

Coach Schmidt put his Buckeyes through a "polishing off" workout yesterday as university officials estimated 70,000 spectators would be on hand for the battle. Northwestern's squad of 35 players arrived at Columbus this morning, ready for a light drill in the Buckeye stadium during the afternoon.

Michigan's Wolverines, 35 in number, worked out at Davenport, Iowa, before moving on to Iowa City for battle with Iowa's Hawkeyes.

Some 45,000 fans probably will watch Navy oppose Notre Dame at South Bend in one of the day's big inter-sectional affairs.

Wisconsin's undefeated Badgers will take on the strong Pittsburgh Panthers.

In the only other game involving a conference eleven, Indiana travels to take on Cincinnati University, Illinois, Minnesota, Chicago and Purdue will be idle.

During the past year there were reports of 3,402 missing persons in St. Louis; 5,108 in Philadelphia; 10,796 in New York City; 2,638 in San Francisco, and 3,082 in Los Angeles.

MT. MORRIS

By Pauline Yoe

Under the direction of Dwight Sharer, general chairman for the 1938 drive of the Community Chest, plans are progressing rapidly, in preparation for the solicitation, which will be during the week of November 15.

Last Thursday evening the budget committee of the chest board, consisting of Harold Ross, chairman; Mrs. Fred Meeker, Mrs. Josie Ray, Mrs. C. J. Price, H. E. Keller and Rev. C. H. Hightower, the merits of the various organizations which participate in the funds, were discussed, and sums were budgeted to them, on the basis of their reports for last year.

The various members of the Chest board were then apprised of the proposed sums, and requested to send their representatives to a meeting of the entire board Tuesday evening, for the purpose of ratifying or making changes in the proposed budget. The budget which was approved by the Chest board members is as follows:

Local relief, $500; Illinois Children's home and Aid society, $175; Blackhawk area, $400; local Boy Scouts and Cubs, $150; Salvation Army, $125; American Red Cross, $150; Girl Scouts and Brownies, $135; State Y. M. C. A., $50; local library fund, $100; community gymnasium, $200.

The budget shows but a slight increase over last year, and this has been due to the further needs of a growing population in our village. The Cubs, which has for its membership boys of 9, 10 and 11 years of age, numbers 26 in its membership, with a dozen more ready to come in, following the recent Cub-Parents night program.

The Girl Scouts, too, have undertaken to initiate the Brownies, for younger girls, under the sponsorship of the Woman's club.

To aid him in the work of the drive, Mr. Sharer is receiving the co-operation of the various chairmen. C. H. Hightower and H. A. Patterson are assisting him on the campaign executive committee, while Jim Watt is advanced gifts chairman. Mrs. C. J. Price on the workers' executive committee, Howard Bronson, employees' chairman, S. E. Avey for the local clubs and lodges, and Harry Conrad as Scout service chairman, are giving valuable aid again this year.

The officers of the local chest board are Milo Zimmerman, Harold Ross, vice president, Paul J. Yoe, secretary, and Mrs. Josie Ray, treasurer.

In a service read by Dr. C. H. Hightower, Miss Hazel Park, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Park, became the bride of Nelson Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin H. Potter, Tuesday at high noon in Trinity Lutheran church. The young couple exchanged their nuptial vows before an altar banked with ferns and pom-pom chrysanthemums. White altar candles glowed in the background.

The bride who approached the altar on the arm of her father, was attired in a gown of old rose brocade moire with a slight train. Her velvet hat and slippers were in a contrasting shade of blue plume. The bodice of the gown was fitted to the bride's slenderness and the short sleeves were puffed at the elbow. In lieu of flowers she carried a white prayerbook with markers of white satin ribbon knotted with white flowers.

Mrs. Earl Gabrielson (Roberta Long), who attended the bride as matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of turquoise blue and carried a colonial bouquet of pom-poms. Donald Mulcahy attended Mr. Potter.

For the ceremony Mrs. Worthington Thomas furnished the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Jane Devine who sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

The bride's mother attended the ceremony wearing a frock of brown chiffon while the groom's mother wore a frock of mahogany crepe. Both wore corsages of mixed fall flowers.

Pink candles in crystal candelabra reflected their light on the large wedding cake which centered the table at the wedding breakfast which was served in the church social rooms following the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Potter was wearing a frock of wine crepe with grey accessories when she and her husband left for a trip through the New England states. They will return to Mt. Morris November 1 and will be at home to their friends at an apartment at 2113 West Front street.

Mrs. Potter was graduated from Mt. Morris high school and for the past five years has been employed in the circulation department of the Cable News company.

Mr. Potter, who long has been one of Mt. Morris' favorite sons, graduated from the local high school and attended Mt. Morris college before entering upon his professional career as a baseball player. Following his work at the Cable Brothers company this winter he will go to Philadelphia next year as pitcher for the Athletics.

As the Indian summer advances toward autumn harvest, outdoor picnics are replaced by indoor social activity. Fall fruit was matched with Halloween colors to form a setting for the bridge party given by Mrs. H. J. Stengel and Mrs. Murray DuMont at the Country club in Oregon last Friday evening.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Park of Lincoln, Neb., grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Newburg of Rockford.

On the theory that laughing aids digestion the hostesses prescribed "asinine anatomy" (pinning the tail on the donkey, to you) prior to the bridge play. This was won by Mrs. Charles Cox, who received a prize for her skill.

At the contract which followed Mrs. Pearl Kable, Mrs. Carl Borklund, Mrs. Donald Clark and Mrs. Frank Horton were prize winners. Others present were the Mesdames Oscar Anderson, Ernest Boydston, Howard Bronson, Nelson Bruner, Kenneth Bruner, Howard Clark, Mark Crawford, L. G. Finch, Ira Hendrickson, Forrest Kable, Harvey Long, Clarence Mitchell, Gerald Sanderson, Darrell Toms, Arthur Harper, Oscar Jern, Paul Kent, A. L. Kirby and C. C. Weaver.

If you were "thar" then you had a good time and you don't have to read this, but if you "no could do" you must plan to be at the next one because everyone had a good time at the dance given by Madge and Don Clark at the town hall Saturday night. The strains from Leroy Garman's orchestra were irresistible.

A little bit of old Mexico was transferred to the living room of Mrs. H. J. Stengel's home last evening when she and Miss Mary McColl entertained the members of the Tri-Deck club at a supper bridge.

The favors, prizes and food presented a Mexican air for the Mesdames O. L. Smith, Mildred Newton, Ross Stouffer, C. C. Cole (Rockford), Harlan McNett, Harry Hermann and the Mesdames Beatrice Horton, Mary Wishard, Edna Coulson and Ethyle McNett.

Like christening a new ship before it is launched upon its lengthy journey, the Advanced officers night of the Mount Morris chapter of the Eastern Star.

For Marylena Van Stone and her husband, Willard who presided in the East, it was an auspicious occasion prefacing a year of fraternal activity. With their assisting officers, Lydia Rowe, acting worthy Matron and Nora Buser, acting conductress, the initiation ceremonies were exemplified for the candidate, Paul J. Yoe. At the star points were Florence Harrison (Pecatonica), Ada, Hazel Conklin (Rockford), Ruth, Alma Coss (Dixon), Esther, Sophie Smith (Forest City Chapter, Rockford), Martha, and Ruth Behren, (Sterling) Electa. Other officers were Associate Conductress, Maree Hall, (Rochelle); treasurer, Alma Bennett, (Freeport); secretary, Mary Malory, (Marengo); chaplain, Marguerite Griffith, (Belvidere); organizer, Sarah White (Oregon); Warder, Ellen Roberts, (Rockton); Associate Patron, George Mosher, (Rockford).

Also in the East were Arminnie and Carroll Boston, Worthy Matron and Patron and Miss Margaret Nash of Rockford, Grand Lecturer of Illinois. Miss Nash has endeared herself to Mount Morris members, and it was she who instructed many of them in Star work.

Anastasia Bienfang of Rochelle, as the guest soloist inspired the audience which numbered over one hundred.

At the supper following the ceremonies, a wheel of fortune with spokes for each month of the year formed an attractive centerpiece for the tables, which were arranged in the pattern of a star. The officers and guests were seated about the tables which were beautifully decorated in the colors of the star points.

To Marylena and Willard, Lydia and Nora, we extend our wishes for good fortune during their year of incumbency.

It was altogether a gay and lively luncheon party given by Mrs. Gerald Sanderson. Mrs. Ira R. Hendrickson, Mrs. Eleanor Wellhausen, Mrs. Frank Horton and Mrs. James Watt, last Saturday afternoon.

Jack Frost's busy brush had splashed rich colors among the trees which surround the Rock River Country club in Oregon, as though to add his share to the decorations within.

On the tables the carnations, chrysanthemums and roses were placed in large bowls to balance the spray arrangement of the tapers. Favors and appointments were carried out in the Halloween motif.

Prizes for bridge which furnished the afternoon's entertainment were won by Mrs. Dwight Sharer, Miss Edna Coulson, Mrs. Mildred Newton, Mrs. Robert Harvey and Mrs. Charles Lamb. Others present were the Mesdames Donald Clark, Nelson Bruner, Verlye Ellis, Murray DuMont, August Hanke, H. E. Coffman, L. A. Watt, Harold Ross, Paul Boyle, Worthington Thomas, Arthur Harper, Maurice Quinlan, William Prugh, Fred Dean, Clyde Walkup, Charles Cox, Paul Yoe, John Blakely, Louis Finch, Paul Kent, Ernest Boydston, C. J. Price, H. J. Stengel, R. S. Kelsey, Charles Edson, Paul Barnhizer, C. L. Smith, Howard Bronson, Harlan McNett, Dale Lizer, John Horton, Harold Knodle, and the Mesdames Mary McColl and Beatrice Horton.

Misses Rhoda and Lila Carr are enjoying a two weeks' vacation from their duties at the Ogle County National bank in Oregon and the Allen Ice Cream Co. at Rockford, respectively. Accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Charles Carr, and Mrs. Effie Whitney, they made a trip to the Smoky Mountains region in North Carolina, experiencing no trouble on the 1,700 mile trip there and return until reaching Rochelle, 18 miles from Oregon, when a car containing three high school students crashed into the Carr machine at a street intersection. None of the party was badly injured. Mrs. Carr being bruised about the head and body but not of a serious nature. The car was badly damaged. The Misses Carr went to Chicago Thursday by train to spend the weekend and the remaining days of their vacation with friends.

Accident Hazards in Home and on Farm Cause Greatest Annual Death Toll

IF YOU live on a heavy traffic corner in a great city, it may be hard for you to believe that the bedroom in which you lie vainly trying to sleep while automobiles hoot and crash on the corner, is less safe than the busy traffic lane.

If you live on a farm you consider your cool barn a safer place than the machine room of the city factory where lathes and belts whirl all day long.

But in both instances you are wrong. Public attention, concentrated on automobile deaths and injuries, is being directed by the American Red Cross to the fact that accidental deaths in the home claim a greater annual toll. Automobile fatalities last year for the nation numbered 37,800; while people killed by accidents in their homes totaled 38,500. Safety drives in industries and utilities have reduced accidents until the deaths last year were 2,300 while on the farm, where safety is only now being taught by the Red Cross, annual death toll was 4,500.

The bedroom is shown by safety experts to be the most dangerous room in the house, largely due to falls and walking in the dark. On the farm, machinery causes the greatest number of accidental deaths, with injury by animals ranking second. The American Red Cross launched its third annual Home and Farm Accident Prevention campaign this fall. More than ten million check lists showing hazards were carried home by school children, including members of the Junior Red Cross. Parents were asked to check these lists against conditions which might exist and from which accidental death or serious injury might result if repairs were not made, or caution observed. This widely acclaimed safety program is one of the many services of the Red Cross supported through its annual roll call for members conducted by chapters and their branches in 12,000 communities.

Alec Templeton Delights Audience With Brilliant Concert Here Last Night

Dixon Concert Association Opens Season

By Don Danielson

Combining excellent technique with inspired interpretation, Alec Templeton, internationally known blind pianist, delighted some 1000 people last night at the Methodist church with a program of amazing variety.

Possessing a distinct depth of expression, rarely achieved even by artists with perfect vision, Mr. Templeton has expertly compensated for his own handicap.

The first part of last night's concert, the first of a series of three to be presented this season by the Dixon Concert Association, was an entirely formal presentation of compositions of the master composers, in which Mr. Templeton proved himself an artist and master of excellent tonal effects.

Surety and Vigor

Opening with Toccata and Fugue in D minor by Bach, which he arranged for piano, he displayed definite surety and vigor.

In the contrasting compositions of Mozart's Rondo B flat and Schumann's Warum Mr. Templeton showed delicacy and warm appeal.

The familiar theme of Brahms' Lullaby in E major was perhaps the outstanding number on the program. The young artist played it with all the mellowness of emotion it deserves.

Representing the modern composers, Mr. Templeton offered as a special number the brilliant colorful Prelude in A minor by Debussy and as an encore Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desire."

Following the intermission the young Britisher gave an entirely informal program for those of us who don't take our music so seriously. Playing his radio theme song he requested his audience "just to relax." His own score, "Lavender Blue," a composition of delicate charm was the first number.

Improvisations

Asking for five notes from the audience the pianist cleverly improvised a theme using the recurring notes of F sharp, G, B, D, and E flat. First he used them in an improvisation in C minor then in C major, and in the style of Bach, Mozart, Strauss and finally as George Gershwin.

In a series of effects which he called "Fun With a Piano," Mr. Templeton displayed a keenly developed sense of humor and rounded personality. He made the piano laugh, and by picking out the overtones gave a remarkable impression of organ chord effects.

Delighting the younger members of last night's audience Mr. Templeton defended swing music when he said, "I feel it has place in our present day. Syncopated swing music," he declared "is accomplished by accenting the third or minor important beat of the measure." He demonstrated this playing "Stardust" in "pure unadulterated swing tempo."

Five Themes in One

Using five compositions, "Body and Soul," "Hallelujah Chorus," Ravel's "Balero" and "12th Street Rag," which were called from the audience, the pianist arranged them into a clever composition running the five themes together. With the same idea he improvised a selection from "Nola," "Sophisticated Lady," "Ava Maria" and "The Merry-Go-Round Broke Down."

Repeating one of his famous radio numbers Mr. Templeton played and sang "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" as Handel might have written it as an oratorio.

Concluding the scheduled part of the program the artist played his own composition "Toccata" which was used as a test piece at the Royal Academy of Music in London.

As encores he offered what he considers one of the prettiest tunes of the day "Little Old Lady" as it would be played on a spinet, and his own theme "Mother's Lullaby" which he wrote at the age of seven. This last number showed again the artist's fine sensitivity and rare touch.

His radio signing-off theme, played while he wished the audience "goodnight and happy dreams" finished the program.

Mr. Templeton's father led the artist to and from the platform.

HE LOVES AMERICA

"I love American audiences," Alec Templeton declared in a post-concert interview with a Telegraph representative. "They just let themselves go."

The young Britisher was born twenty-six years ago on July 4. "The date" he said, "almost makes me an American, but I'm still British at heart, of course."

He accepted the barrage of questions in the spirit of fun and seemed to enjoy it heartily.

"I have loads and loads of friends here in America," he said, "Americans are so kind and helpful and their friendships so warm."

Asked about his plans, Mr. Templeton revealed that he will be in America "a long time—a good long time" and that he will play in concert this winter. In February he will go to California. He chuckled when Hollywood was mentioned and

Brain Twizzlers

By
PROF. J. D. FLINT

A man in a boat in the middle of a stream dropped a capped bottle overboard which, of course, started floating downstream. At the same time the man started rowing upstream. He rowed for 10 minutes at a constant rate, then turned and rowed downstream at the same rate. He caught the bottle three miles below the point at which he dropped it into the water. What was the rate of the flow of the stream?

In order to avoid any confusion the information is given that the man is assumed to be motionless when he drops the bottle in the water, you need not figure time taken to get started rowing or to turn the boat around.

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler

The manager probably fired his assistant because he lost $100 on the transactions. One house cost him $4,500 and he gained $450 on it. The other cost him $5,000 and he lost $550 on it.

rendered by Eleanor Schafer, Phyllis Cordes, and Bernice Weishaar. The Misses Cora and Dorothy Schafer sang a vocal duet, accompanied by Miss Minetta Hilliard at the piano, between the second and third acts of the play. A second presentation of the play was given on Sunday evening to the visiting leaguers, who had attended the rally held during that day.

W. H. Yenerich left Monday evening on a business trip to St. Paul, Minn. While there he will attend a salesman's conference and be the guest of H. H. Cowie, vice president of Curtis 1000 Inc.

On Monday of this week the many friends of Rev. C. D. Wilson, a former pastor of the Ashton and Franklin Grove Methodist churches were saddened to hear of his sudden passing. His death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. D. Herold at Evanston. Rev. Wilson is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Alice Warner of Holland, Mich.; Mrs. Winifred Flack of Evanston, and one son, George J. of Pittsburgh, Penn.

Mrs. Wilson passed away about ten years ago and a son Charles A. died while a student at the University of Illinois. Funeral services for Rev. Wilson were held Wednesday morning at the First Methodist church chapel at Evanston, with interment at Forest Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Orno J. Kersten, daughters Frances and Orla, and son John and Miss Clara Krug were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Kersten's parents, Supt.

Mrs. Minnie L. Krug entertained at her home last Sunday with a family dinner in honor of the first wedding anniversary of her younger daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Halsey of Rochelle. Other dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Krug, daughter, Bernadine and sons, Junior and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Krug and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Krug.

Mrs. Emma Wetzel expects to return to her home in this city the latter part of the week, after having been a patient at the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital in Dixon for several weeks. Her many friends are pleased to know that she is better.

The Evangelistic services held at the Evangelical church continue to grow in interest. Wednesday evening was Young People's night while Thursday evening was set aside for community night. The Evangelical church extended an invitation to the other churches to meet with them on Thursday evening. Friday night is to be Sunday school night and all members and friends of the church and Sunday school are asked to be present. On that evening Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Shaeffer will render a vocal duet. Rev. H. B. Shaeffer, pastor of the Evangelical church at Joliet, has been the Evangelist during this series of meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Attig, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Yale of Amboy motored to Peoria on Wednesday. Mr. Attig and Mr. Yale attended the annual meeting of the Illinois Supply Co. held at the Pierre Marquette Hotel in Peoria. Mr. Attig represented the Lee County Farm Bureau Oil Co.

Miss Ella Vaupel spent several days last week at the country home of her sister, Mrs. Richard Petrie. Monday, Miss Vaupel and Mrs. Petrie were business callers in Dixon.

The play, "He was a Gay Senorita" given by members of the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran church was very well presented on Friday evening at the Mills and Petrie Memorial building. The characters were well chosen and the play moved from one hilarious climax to another.

Between Acts 1 and 2 a vocal duet was sung by Norman Weishaar and Melvin Schafer accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Ann Howard and an instrumental trio was nicely and Mrs. O. A. Fackler of Sterling, Frances and Orla remained in Sterling with their grandparents, where they attend school.

Mrs. Roy J. Krug spent Monday visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Miller who reside near Lee Center.

Mrs. Charles Becker, daughter Orla and Mrs. Ervin Becker of Becker of Reynolds township, were shoppers in Dixon Monday afternoon.

The magazine selling contest, sponsored by the Junior class of the local high school closed Wednesday noon with the result that $110 worth of magazine subscriptions were sold. The winning side with Wallace Yenerich as captain sold $74 of the total amount, and they will receive a box of candy as their reward from the Curtis Publishing Co. Various members of the class who sold a certain number of subscriptions will receive individual prizes for their efforts. The Juniors have used this method of raising money which will later be needed to defray expenses of the annual Junior-Senior reception. ....

BOSTON BEES BIDDING FOR DONIE BUSH

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Boston team of the National league held forth its managerial reins today to Donie Bush, popular leader of the Minneapolis baseball club of the American Association.

Bush promised a decision today as to whether he would accept what he called a "flattering offer" from Bob Quinn, president of the Bees, or remain with the Minneapolis Millers.

Bush and Mike Kelly, owner of the Millers, held a long conference here yesterday. Kelly said Donie could manage the local club for him as long as he (Kelly) owned it. Minneapolis has won three pennants—1933, 1934, and 1935—in the five years Bush has directed it from the field. Before coming here Bush had managed Washington, Pittsburgh, the Chicago White Sox and Cincinnati.

While Boston's terms were not announced, it was reported here to be in excess of the $10,000-a-year salary Bush has been drawing from the Millers.

"It is a temptation to return to the major leagues," said Bush, in discussing the Bees' offer. "But I have been so happy in Minneapolis that I want extra time in which to make up my mind."

"I have known Quinn for many years and I know we would get along together amicably. The Boston job is mine if I say the word."

At Boston, John Quinn, secretary of the Bees, said his father, Bob, had confirmed the information that Boston wanted Bush.

GOOD THOUGHTS

There is none fit search after truth which does not first of all begin to live the truth which it knows.

—Horace Bushnell.

The greatest homage you can pay to truth is to use it.

—Emerson.

Truth always requires subsequent action. It can never be known in the height or in the depth as a mere contemplation. It must be known interiorly, so that a man may do it, act true to it.

—Richard Meux Benson.

Study to make prevail — One colour in thy life, the hue of Truth.

—Matthew Arnold.

The entire purpose of true education is to make one not only know the truth but live it — to make one enjoy doing right.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart.

—Psalms 15.

The Promotional Conference which were held last week in five different portions of the conference were brought home to the minds of some believers, probably many, the unique and central position of the church service and the work of the church in the midst of its many organizations; that to this central worship and work every thought and every effort should bend in the planning and thinking of every group and every member.

6:30 p. m. the young people meet, and they are really meeting. If any of the youth do not attend they are missing real values and genuine pleasures. Next Friday there will be a rally of the youth of the Northern Conference at Oregon. We should have at least 25 to go. Come and make arrangements at this meeting.

BRETHREN CHURCH

The revival at the Brethren church was in full swing last night with a large attendance, a fine spirit, and the evangelist at his best. The hearty co-operation in the singing of choruses, and good old hymns has been one of the interesting features of the campaign.

Last night a brother-in-law of the evangelist, Rev. Mark Burner, of Preston, Minn., led in prayer. The large number of boys and girls present each evening gives evidence of the appreciation of the good stories told by Mrs. Thompson each evening. They have a practical lesson which grips the minds of not only the children but adults as well. "I Dreamed I Searched Heaven for You" was sang and accompanied on the guitar, by Charles Kesseling.

Rev. Paul Thompson, who began this series last Sunday morning following a large Sunday school of 196, spoke on the subject of "The Wages of Sin Is Death," and pressed home eternal truths based on the Holy Scriptures, pointing out the importance of living a pure life not stained by sin. Mr. Thompson has a pleasing way of holding his audience and has a unique way of presenting his message which holds the attention from start to finish.

While he told of the scars caused by sin, of lives that have been wrecked because of sin, of blasted hopes, and broken homes, yet he held out the way of escape through Jesus Christ who died that all might have life abundantly, and finally eternal life. The service tonight will begin at 7:45. There will be no service Saturday night.

An effort is being made to have over 200 at Sunday school Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. All classes are urging a good attendance in their classes.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening followed by the quarterly conference.

All are welcome at Bethel church.

DAILY HEALTH

GLAND FUNDAMENTALS

By Iago Galdston, M. D.

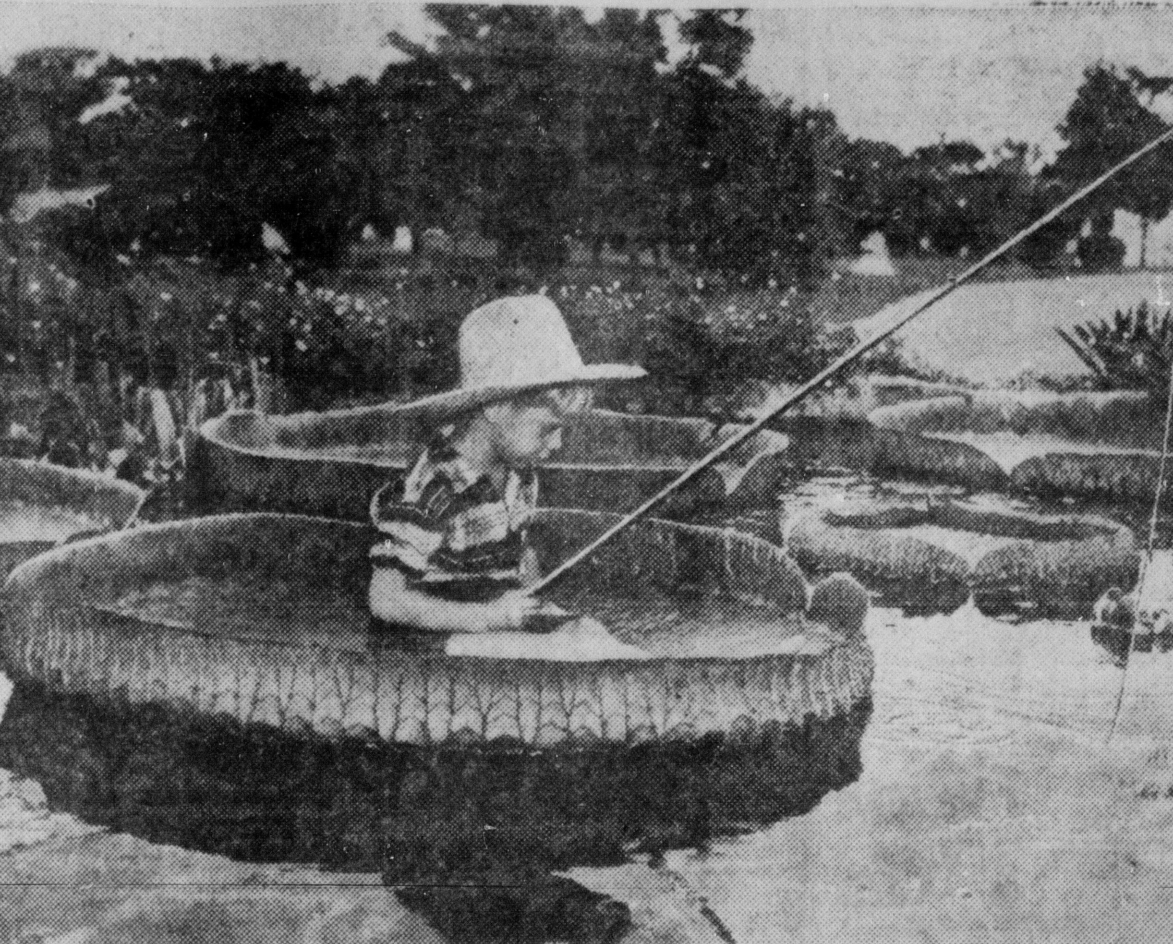

There is not much risk in predicting that the science of endocrinology will grow in importance during the coming years. This science, dealing with the functions and diseases of the glands of internal secretion, has already supplied us with "miracle working" hormones and has afforded us deep insight into the mysteries of physical growth, sexual ripening, reproduction and metabolism.

Despite its present day importance and promise for the future, endocrinology is but little understood by the layman.

Yet certain facts concerning the glands of internal secretion should be common knowledge. To begin with, how do the endocrine glands, or the glands of internal secretion, differ from the glands of external secretion? Both types of glands are composed of special cells. These cells have the capacity to abstract from the blood certain substances out of which they form their unique secretions. For example, the sweat glands abstract the substances that enter into the composition of sweat; the sebaceous glands, sebum or fat; the salivary glands, saliva.

The glands of external secretion are so organized that they have an opening or duct (tube or channel) through which they pour out their secretions. The glands of internal

Gilding a Lily Pad Into a Handy Fishing Craft

Bending his head earnestly to the all-absorbing task of luring wily tropical fish from their hiding places, 5-year-old Lonny Bliss, Miami, uses one of the giant lily pads to cast from. The lily is so large it bears up easily under the youthful fisherman's weight, and he doesn't need a boat for the best angling.

secretion lack such openings and whatever they secrete ultimately enters the blood stream and is thus distributed.

Certain glands are, to the best of our knowledge, exclusively glands of external secretion (the sebaceous glands, for example). Others are exclusively glands of internal secretion, such as the adrenals located above each kidney. Still other glands are of a mixed variety, that is, glands both of internal and of external secretion.

An example of this type of gland is the pancreas. This gland has a duct through which it pours its secreted digestive enzymes into the duodenum. The pancreas, however, also contains collections of cells called the Islands of Langerhans, which produce insulin. This secretion is absorbed directly by the blood.

The substances secreted by the glands of internal secretion are called hormones. This is derived from the Greek term which means "to urge on," and it describes the principal function of the hormones, namely, to stimulate or excite some vital process.

SEATS TO SHIFT

IN SUPREME COURT

Washington — (AP)—The entrance of Justice Hugo L. Black, former Senator from Alabama, in the Supreme Court chamber, will bring a shift in the seating arrangement.

Since justices are seated according to seniority along the bench, the Alabamian will take his seat on the extreme right. This means the justices will sit, from left to right, like this: Cardozo, Stone, Sutherland, McReynolds, Hughes, Brandeis, Butler, Roberts and Black.

Group insurance in the United States last year was estimated to total $1,303,000,000.

Need $5,000,000 More To Reimburse Thirteen States

Washington, Oct. 22—(AP)—Treasury experts added $5,000,000 today to the total likely to be needed for the reimbursement of 13 states, Hawaii and Alaska, where the federal government temporarily collected all payroll taxes under the social security act.

They estimated Congress would be asked to appropriate $35,000,000 for the reimbursement, $5,000,000 more than the amount estimated unofficially when the reimbursement was authorized at the last session.

The reimbursement will amount to 90 per cent of the taxes collected. The collections were made by the federal government because the states and territories did not then have unemployment insurance laws of their own.

The experts said they were preparing data covering both the total amount and its division by states. They declined to estimate what any state would receive, but Illinois, largest of the states involved, is expected to receive the largest single portion.

The treasury said it would submit its figures to the budget bureau with a recommendation for an appropriation.

OREGON FARMERS

TRY BREEDING COYPU

Scio, Ore. — (AP)—Coypu raising is one of the latest ventures to attract Oregonians. This is the South American animal which supplies the fur known as nutria.

Several farms are now operating in this state, and pelts sell for $20 to $30.

The coypu breeds rapidly, but the young are often destroyed by seagulls. The adults, weighing up to 25 pounds, resemble beaver.

Revenues for the national organization of the American Red Cross for the 1935-36 fiscal year were $11,565,293.74.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

IN TURKESTAN, EAGLES ARE TRAINED TO HUNT GAME! NUMBERED AMONG THEIR KILLS ARE FOXES, GAZELLES, WOLVES, GOATS AND HARES.

COPIED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

COAL CAN GIVE HEAT WITHOUT BEING BURNED! IN RUSSIA, COAL DUST IS SPRINKLED OVER COTTON LAND, TO ABSORB HEAT FROM THE SUN AND INCREASE SOIL TEMPERATURE.

THE training of eagles for hunting is much like that of other birds used in falconry. Approximately one month is necessary as a preliminary schooling before the bird is ready to try its luck on living game. The weight of an eagle alone, as it drops with terrific force from a great height, is enough to break the back of a good-sized animal.

Walnut Farm Boy Is Run- ner-up in Field of 25 Pickers

Meet the 1937 county champion corn husker of Bureau county. He is Roy Dremann, route 2, Princeton, and he won his crown yesterday in the county contest held at the farm of Henry V. Albrecht & Son, nine miles south of Wyanet, by picking 36.83 bushels of corn in 80 minutes against a field of 24 competitors.

Roy is 26 years old, weighs 170 pounds, likes farming and apple pie, and hopes his county victory will give him an opportunity to compete in the state contest which is to be held near Van Orin, Bureau county, November 1. He is employed on the farm of Robert B. Monier.

To win the county championship Roy picked 2,880 pounds of corn, but deductions for gleanings and husks reduced the net amount to 2,578.50 pounds, which is 36.83 bushels. Roy took part in the 1936 contest, when he placed sixth from the top with a total of 33.5 bushels.

Runner-up in yesterday's contest was Elmer Wagelin, who picked 35.33 bushels. He is a son of Albert Wagelin and lives on his father's farm about three miles east of Walnut. Elmer also took part in last year's contest, winning third place with a total of 34.5 bushels. His gross picking this year was 2,690 pounds but deductions brought it down to 2,487.37 pounds.

Winner in the contest was given $12.50 in cash and may have an opportunity to take part in the state contest provided his score is among the high 10 in the different county contests now under way throughout the state. The runner-up was given $10 in cash. Other awards were third prize, $7.50; fourth, $5; fifth, $3; sixth, $2, and $1 each for all other contestants.

Champion Injures Hand

Adam Byczynski of Lamolite, state champion, who has expected to take part in the Bureau county contest as a workout for the state contest was prevented from husking by an injured hand. He expects to be in shape for the state contest, however. Adam's brother, Phil Byczynski of Zeating, was among the big field of competitors yesterday and ran up a total of 29.88 bushels.

Leo Didier of Arlington placed third yesterday with a 34.82 bushels and fourth place went to Harold D. Bauer of Lamolite with 34.62 bushels. In fifth place was Harold Perkins of Tampico with 33.75 bushels, while a total of 33.59 bushels gave sixth place to Elmer Linden of Tiskilwa. Arthur Rapp of Princeton picked 33.26 bushels and Virdeen Heuer of Princeton exactly 33 bushels.

Others who picked more than 30 bushels in the 80 minutes were: Alfred Grosch, Lamolite, 32.88; Alfred Behrens, Princeton, 31.87; Robert Transeau, Princeton, 32.51; Gilbert Carver, Lamolite, 31.52; Marvin Morris, Tiskilwa, 31.37; and Carl A. Linden, Tiskilwa, 30.78.

Scores of other contestants were: Robert Rapp, Princeton, 29.10; Ray F. Snyder, Princeton, 28.83; J. E. Fahlberg, Princeton, 28.74; Roger Stremlare, Arlington, 27.57; Elmer Freeburg, Princeton, 27.33; Mike Quickle, Princeton, 27.34; Harry Freeburg, Princeton, 27.17; Jess Huffnagel, Bradford, 25.33; Carl Dremann, Lamolite, 24.91; Leslie Peterson, Lamolite, 24.33.

Scheduled to begin at 11 a. m., the starting gun which sent the huskers down the 120-rod rows was not fired until 12:10 p. m., and it was exactly 1:30 p. m. when the signal was given to halt husking. The contest field was of hybrid corn. Little corn was down, but rain had made the field soggy and the going was not the best.

Rain Cuts Crowd

The drizzle and a cold wind out of the north cut the crowd of spectators to about 500, and many of these remained in their cars instead of following the contestants in the field. It was after 5 p. m. when the last wagon load of corn had been weighed and the contest results compiled.

The central committee in charge of the contest was made up of Guy Shurts, Bradford; Marshall Downey and Lloyd Pearson of Tiskilwa. These men with Glenn Foster of Buda also acted as starters. The weighing was in charge of Virgil Eickmeier and Joe Myers of Princeton.

Judges of the contest were Martin Ricker, Princeton; Guy Akin, Buda; T. J. Conley, Walnut; F. O. Anderson, Princeton; Oliver Miller, Princeton; S. H. Zuck, Buda; F. H. ### Women of the Bureau county Home Bureau served sandwiches, doughnuts, pie and coffee and traffic was handled by drivers of the Bureau County Service Co. Many farmers in the neighborhood contributed wagons for the contest, while implement dealers provided tractors.

Farm Adviser Paul Dean said this was one of the largest contests ever held in the county and the results were considered satisfactory despite the inclement weather.

Other County Results

Winners of cornhusking contests throughout the state were the big "who's who," in Illinois agricultural circles today.

Robert Moore, of Tallula, won the Menard county corn husking title yesterday. He husked 34 bushels and 36 pounds in 80 minutes.

Ray Woodrum, of Athens, finished second with 31 bushels and 35 pounds, and Raymond Young, Athens, third with 28 bushels and eight pounds.

Russell Fry, a Mode farmer, husked 1850 pounds of corn in 80 minutes to win the Shelby county title.

He nosed out Merle Firey of Assumption, who picked 15 pounds more than Fry, but had 63 pounds deducted for corn left on the field. Frank Dunnaway of Beecher City, placed third.

The Livingston county championship was won by Raymond Zehr of Flanagan. He husked 37,125 bushels in 83 minutes. His total was 3,26 bushels more than John Cottingham, the 1936 champion.

Delmar Mock, of Flanagan, was second with 36,369 bushels, and Walter Thomson of Pontiac, third, with 35,776.

Otto Hensler of Edwards won the Peoria county championship with a score of 24.7 bushels. Earl Easter, Chillicothe, was second with 23.8 and 1936 champion, Roy Harmon of Princeville, fourth with 21.3.

Meets scheduled for today were in Macon, McDonough and Woodford counties.

STATE MARRIAGE LICENSES DROP

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 22—(AP)—The public health department said today that the number of marriage licenses issued in 18 representative downstate counties during July, August and September was 74 per cent below those issued for the same 1936 period.

The department said the decrease presumably was due to the hygienic marriage law.

Adding June to the period of both years, the report said the decrease amounted to 46 per cent for the four months. However, a gradual increase was reported for the last three months, the decrease in July being 85 per cent, August 72 per cent, and September 68 per cent, compared with last year.

The department said that although it was known that many couples were married outside of Illinois since June, there were no accurate records available to show whether there was an actual decline in the marriage rate for the entire state.

Counties included in the survey were Adams, Alexander, Coles, DeKalb, Williamson, Lake, Winnebago, McLean, Macon, Marion, Peoria, Rock Island, St. Clair, Vermilion and Whiteside.

FORGETFUL BLIND MAN

WALKS 3-STORY LEDGE

Washington Court House, O.—(AP)—Courthouse employees here watched breathlessly a man they knew to be blind climb out onto the third-story ledge of a building across the street, inch his way to a distant window, and let himself inside.

To amazed questioners, the climber, James Knisley, sightless violinist, said he had forgotten the key to his room, so he had to go out a hall window and around the ledge to gain entrance. He's done it often at night, he said.

Streamlining has now gone into the field of road building machinery. Power shovels, paving mixers, finishing machines, tractors, compressors and graders are showing new styles.
